At its 22nd Annual General Meeting (AGM), the members of the International Association of Deposit Insurers (IADI) strengthened the Association's mandate and its role as the global standard-setter for deposit insurance systems.

IADI President Alejandro Lopez said: "The recent banking stress provides important lessons for deposit insurers to reflect on. As important participants in the financial safety-net, deposit insurers must be equipped with the necessary powers and tools to protect depositors and contribute to financial stability." "Expanding IADI's statutory objectives will enable IADI to more effectively serve as a forum for deposit insurers and other financial safety-net participants to discuss major financial events and develop policy responses to promote financial stability."

Members also discussed lessons learnt from the banking turmoil in March 2023 and agreed to publish a report by end of 2023 that will include key takeaways for deposit insurance systems. The findings will inform the review to be undertaken in 2024 of the IADI Core Principles, the global standard for deposit insurance systems.

The AGM also approved the 2023 Annual Report and welcomed new members - the Namibia Deposit Guarantee Authority (NDGA), the Icelandic Financial Institutions' Guarantee Fund (Icelandic FIGF), and the Corporation for Deposit Insurance (South Africa) - and the Monetary Authority of Singapore and the Central Bank of Eswatini as new Associates. Members also elected new Executive Committee members - Hellen Chepkwony, Kenya Deposit Insurance Corporation; Patrick Déry, Autorité des marchés financiers, Québec, Canada; Marija Hrebac, Croatian Deposit Insurance Agency; Jonathan Pallant, The Financial Services Compensation Scheme, United Kingdom; Claudio Weber, Credit Cooperatives Guarantee Fund, Brazil; JaeHoon Yoo, Korea Deposit Insurance Corporation; and Hilmar Zettler, Association of German Banks.

The AGM, hosted in Boston by the Massachusetts Credit Union Share Insurance Corporation (MSIC), was preceded by the Annual Conference which attracted 250 attendees.
